To Our Faculty

A great man once said, "He who hath a trade hath an estate." His name was Benjamin Franklin, a noted citizen and a scholar. As we, the Class of 1961, close the pages of our high school history, we cannot help but liken the educational philosophy and qualities of this great man to our faculty who have guided us these past years.

When we look back on time and recall the efforts of you, our teachers, we cannot help but remember the selflessness, the patience, the graciousness of understanding that filled the atmosphere of our stay here at Trade High. The many times we were reminded by you of the importance of being a good citizen, of our attendance record being a criteria of dependability, of our conduct being a measuring stick of our future happiness, of our obligations to our parents and guardians, and most important, our grades as a help to our future happiness and success, have contributed to this moment of achievement for us.

The transfer of your knowledge to us has brought us to this great step in our lives; the goal of graduation as a skilled tradesman with a high school diploma. We thank you also for the many pleasurable moments afforded us through our activities here at the school.

As the Class of 1961 bid adieu to the Trade High we wish to express to you the faculty, our sincere appreciation and wish for your continued dedication and success in your chosen vocation of assisting boys to become men.

Farewell and thanks.

DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

I wish to congratulate you, the Class of 1961, for your achievements and particularly for your choice of dedication of your yearbook.

Citizenship is undoubtedly the richest integral part of any course in our curriculum. It supplies the reason for our character and existence. It provides the moral principles by which we must guide our lives. Character investigation instills in us a greater love for our fellow man and a stronger desire to serve the community.

From knowledge flows love, and from love, sacrifice. It has been your good fortune to have been instructed by a fine faculty. With the patience and forbearance of a true father, they have urged you, along with your parents, to the practice of good citizenship. Remember their lessons always.

May the future years be good to you and yours.

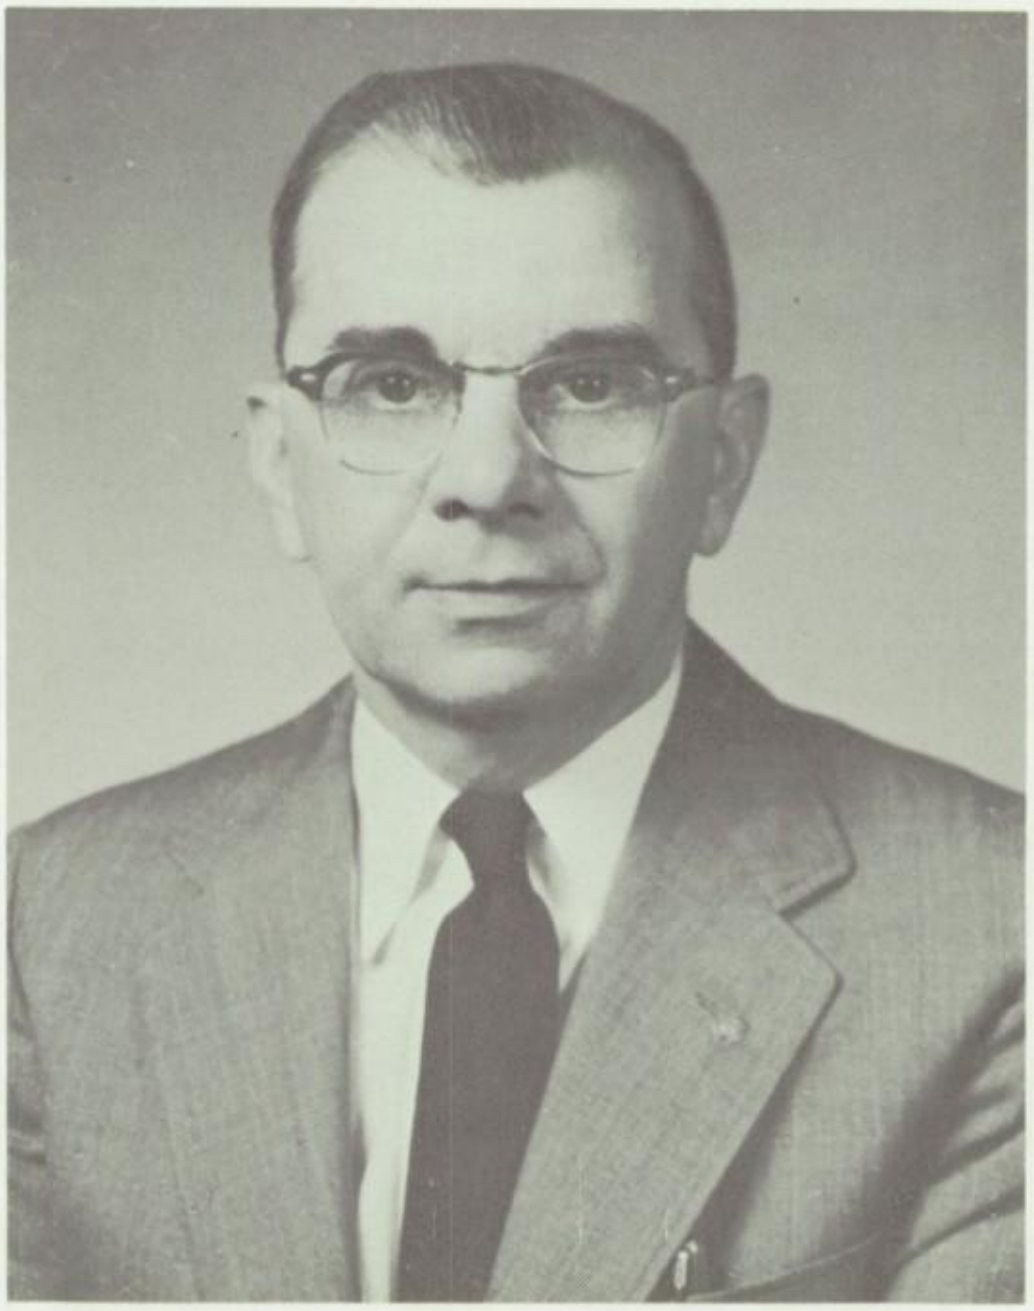
Senior Class Advisor



EDWARD A. GUAZZALOCA

Congratulations and best wishes to the Class of 1961.

As your Advisor, it has been an enlightening experience to work with you and to help guide you for a successful future. After graduation you must answer for yourself. I hope that you will do this well in work time, and especially in leisure time, for the true measure of a man's worth lies not in that which he is paid to do, but in the things he does freely without thought of reward.

With many memories, I bid the Class of 1961, adieu.

Class History

Some day soon we, the senior class, will be face to face with our future. Looking back, as we do tonight, we realize that without the assistance of our friends, teachers and especially parents this would not be possible. Just like a construction company building a bridge, knowing that every brick, which is put in place, moves them another step nearer their goal—completion of the bridge, so have you helped to build, not just a bridge, but something more important, the future citizens of tomorrow. With every year being like another brick put in place, now, through your efforts, we are ready to start along life's highway with full assurance of success in everything we do.

Let us, for a few moments, review the last four educational years. As summer came to an end, the time came when we entered Trade High as "lowly freshmen." Our curiosity was aroused as to what our upper classmen might think of us. After the first bewildering weeks, we finally became accustomed to the system in our new school. As the school year came to a close, we left our freshman year behind with a feeling of satisfaction; looking forward to our summer vacation, and yet, looking forward also to our sophomore year.

Our eagerness to return to school was greatly increased as we approached the starting day as sophomores. The summer was enjoyed by all, but now we were ready to buckle down to our trade and school studies. June came at last! We had struggled through the sophomore year and had reached the end of the road. Eagerly we closed our books and shops, settling back to enjoy a summer of leisure happiness for some, but work for most of us.

Our junior year arrived, and we were finding out that people were beginning to notice Somerville Trade High School and the work being done by the boys, through the intruction of patient teachers. Post 19, of the American Legion, for the first time, had a student from our school represent us at "Boys State of 1960" held at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. Before we knew it our third year came to a close.

As September came, we realized that this was the last time we would begin a new school year here. This was the beginning of the end—we were seniors! With the buzzing of elections for class officers, and our representative to the State House, the months seemed to slip through our fingers and Christmas was right around the corner. Our newly elected officers planned a party which proved to be fun for those who attended. Our student council started to function and a committee to head and edit a school paper called the "Trade Winds" was started. This year seemed to make every student work just a little harder, realizing that this was our final year at Trade High. Coming back from Christmas vacation meant the beginning of our projects for the science fair, and our duties of the "Teen Citizens Administration," plus other activities.

With our school year coming to an end, and as we prepare to leave our high school, we hope we have proven to be a benefit to the school and our community. We now realize that our future, as good citizens, is due to the never-ending efforts of our director, our teachers, and our devoted parents.

Letter to Parents

Dear Parent:

I am pleased to inform you that your son has been selected by his instructors, and the faculty awards committee as "Student of the Month" for the month of April at the Somerville Trade High School.

This award is based on scholastic ability, citizenship, attitude and character; in short, those traits which are necessary for success in his chosen trade. In the opinion of his instructors, he has demonstrated in his daily work that he meets these qualifications.

Since he was selected from more than 200 students attending the Somerville Trade High School, you have every reason to feel proud of his achievement. We are pleased to have young men of his caliber attend our school.

Very truly yours,

WALTER E. STRUBLE, Director
